

Morning Encounter

by Glenn Currier

In the morning coolness
just after dawn
such sweetness
settles upon me
in these few moments with you alone in this sacred space.

Here You gently filter
your peace and love
into me
before this day's stream rushes upon me with its swift flow
boulders
and turbulence.

Here for now it is just you and I
in this silent colloquy in this exquisite intimacy.

I rest unperturbed
and blameless
in the presence
of your quiet majesty
and forgiveness,
nestled comfortably
in your warm embrace.

This precious moment
of trust envelops my heart protects it from all harm says good morning
to my soul.

Author's Note: Written this morning while journaling in our garden room.

Written 4-2-18
Copyright © 2018 Glenn Currier