

Real Wealth

By Glenn Currier

When I find myself in an anxious state wandering aimlessly in futile debate over what to eat, drink or buy let it be to your cross I'll fly.

There you hang, your message clear:
Give up slavery to fear abandon relational fixation avoid material subjugation.

All those attachments merely distract and the payments they severely extract mount into a terrible debt amass a treasure of regret.

So, when I'm in a state of dis-ease trapped in the costs and the fees I'll repair to my soul's true health the currency of love and real wealth.
